Conference

SIARC
July 21 - 25, 2019

THE UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS AT DALLAS

What is SIARC?

SIARC is a unique opportunity for adults with hearing impairment and their communication partners to experience the benefits of cooperative learning in a social environment.

Participants will benefit from the expertise of guest speakers on several occasions during the conference. Topics in the past have included tinnitus, coping skills, and assistive listening devices.

Group classes on coping, facilitating communication, and how to use new listening technology will be provided each day.

Throughout the conference and planned social activities, participants will be able to try digital and programmable hearing aids and use various assistive listening devices that work with hearing aids or cochlear implants.

Personnel from the Advanced Hearing Research Center at the Callier Center will present innovations in hearing research and opportunities for research involvement.

Why Two People?

Hearing loss affects a person's communication with others. That is why SIARC is designed for a participant with hearing loss and his/her communication partner. The communication partner may be a spouse, family member, friend or co-worker. Individuals are also welcome to attend.

Guest Speaker

Our guest speaker this year, Dr. Colleen Le Prell, is Director of the UTD-AUD program and is one of the leading researchers in the area of hearing loss prevention. She conducts research on hearing conservation, effects of noise exposure, speech recognition, and pharmacologic otoprotection. Her lecture will provide valuable information for SIARC participants as well as AUD students and Audiology Faculty.

Scholarships

Tuition scholarships may be available.

Evening Activities

There will be special evening activities to utilize the skills learned throughout the week and to experience some of the assistive listening devices in real life situations.

This year, we will try new assistive technology at the Dallas Summer Musicals while enjoying the Broadway production, Hello Dolly, on Wednesday evening.
